

NT SOIL SYMPOSIUMS

2020 EVENT DETAILS

Territory Natural Resource Managements Soil Symposiums are a day focused on recognition of the importance of healthy soil in farming and living systems. Expert presenters will cover topics such as soil carbon, biology, fertility, soil erosion, and current activities being undertaken in the Northern Territory to improve soil health and condition.

The symposiums are open to farmers, backyard gardeners, and anyone with an interest in the world beneath their feet. With national award winning speakers mixed with local speakers, this is a free event you will not want to miss!

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Colin Seis (2014 Bob Hawke Landcare Award Winner)

Colin is the pioneer developer of 'Pasture Cropping', which has been adopted across Australia and internationally. It contributes to the development of topsoil, stabilising soil erosion, and provides great potential for restoring grasslands, increasing soil carbon levels, improving soil health and growing nutrient dense, healthy food

Rob Hinrichsen (AUSVEG Grower of the Year 2016)

Rob and the Kalfresh growers have adopted a number of industry-leading initiatives, including a sophisticated composting program, controlled traffic farming, introducing biologicals, integrated pest management, and cover cropping
